(2) An investigating officer may record a statement made by a person interviewed in writing; and the statement must be read over to the person who must then be asked to sign it.

(4) If a statement made in accordance with this section is proved to have been made voluntarily, the statement is admissible in evidence in criminal proceedings against the person making the statement.

(5) A person who, without reasonable excuse, refuses to attend as required under subsection (1) commits an offence and is liable on conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or a fine not exceeding €5,000 or to both.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to a document for the production of which a warrant of the Administrator is required by this Ordinance or any other enactment.

(3) A person who is required to produce a document by a notice under subsection (1) must be treated as complying with the notice if the person causes the document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the document.

(6) This section does not authorise any person to carry out an intimate search (but see section 18 for power to carry out an intimate search of an arrested person).

Intimate search of arrested person

18.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), a police officer of at least the rank of inspector may authorise an intimate search of a person who has been arrested if the officer has reasonable grounds for believing that—

(4) An intimate search that is only a drug offence search must be carried out by a suitably qualified person.

(5) Any other intimate search must be carried out by—

Nolle prosequi

51.—(1) In any criminal case, at any stage of the proceedings before judgment, the Attorney-General and Legal Adviser may enter a nolle prosequi, either by stating in court or by informing the court in writing that the Crown intends that the proceedings are not to continue.

(2) If a nolle prosequi is entered, the defendant must without delay—

- (a) be discharged in respect of the charge for which the nolle prosequi is entered; and
- (b) be released from custody (unless the defendant is in custody for some other reason).

(3) A discharge under subsection (2)(a) does not operate as a bar to subsequent proceedings against the defendant for the same offence or on account of the same facts.

Limitation period for certain offences

52.—(1) This section applies to an offence if the maximum penalty for the offence is—

- (a) imprisonment for a term of three months or less; or

- (c) where the court orders something to be served or otherwise communicated in a different manner.

Commencing proceedings, etc

Criminal proceedings must be commenced by charge sheet

55. Except as provided in any other enactment, criminal proceedings against a person must be commenced by filing a charge sheet at court.

Charge sheet: form

56. A charge sheet must—

- (a) be in the prescribed form;
- (b) be signed by or on behalf of the person by whom proceedings are commenced;
- (c) state the court in which the proceedings are to take place;
- (d) state the name and description of the defendant as known to the prosecution (which must be sufficient to identify the defendant); and
- (e) state the offence or offences with which the defendant is charged in accordance with section 57 (charge sheet: supplementary).

Charge sheet: supplementary

57.—(1) The following provisions apply to charge sheets—

- (a) a charge sheet must contain a statement of each offence with which the defendant is charged in a separate paragraph, called a count;
- (b) where a charge sheet contains more than one count, the counts must be numbered consecutively;
- (c) a count must describe the offence shortly in ordinary language, avoiding as far as possible the use of technical terms, and without needing to state all essential elements of the offence;
- (d) a count must contain a reference to the provision of the enactment that creates the offence; and where the offence is created by the joint effect of more than one enactment or is created by one enactment and the penalty is provided in another enactment, the count must contain a reference to all such enactments;
- (e) where a provision creating an offence provides that the offence may be committed—
 - (i) by doing or making any one of a number of different acts or omissions in the alternative,
 - (ii) by doing or making an act or omission in any one of a number of different capacities or with any one of a number of different intentions in the alternative, or

(iii) otherwise provides that the offence may be committed in any one of a number of different ways in the alternative, the count may state the acts, omissions, capacities or other ways of committing the offence in the alternative;

- (f) where a provision creates an offence subject to an exception, exemption, proviso or qualification, it is not necessary for the count to state why the exception, exemption, proviso or qualification does not apply;
- (g) where an offence consists of doing anything with or to any property, unless required for the purpose of describing an offence that depends on any special ownership of property or special value of property, it is not necessary for the count to state that the property belongs to a particular person; and whether or not such a statement is made, it is sufficient for the prosecution to prove such facts as to ownership that show that the defendant committed the offence with which the defendant is charged;
- (h) it is not necessary for a charge sheet to contain any greater certainty of statement as to documents, facts, things, persons, places, time or any other matter than is reasonably sufficient for the purpose of giving the defendant notice thereof;
- (i) facts or document may be scheduled, and copies thereof may be attached, to a charge sheet, if convenient;
- (j) it is not necessary for a count, in stating an intent to defraud, deceive or injure, to state an intent to defraud, deceive or injure a particular person unless the enactment creating the offence provides that an intent to defraud, deceive or injure a particular person is an essential ingredient of the offence;
- (k) where the defendant is charged with a criminal breach of trust, fraudulent appropriation of property, fraudulent falsification of accounts, fraudulent conversion, corruption or abuse of office, it is sufficient for the count to specify the gross sum in respect of which the offence is alleged to have been committed without specifying particular items or exact dates;
- (l) where a previous conviction of an offence is charged, it must be charged at the end of the count by means of a statement that the defendant has been previously convicted of the offence at a certain time and place without stating the particulars of the offence.

(2) A charge sheet is not open to objection as to form or contents if it is framed in accordance with this Ordinance.

(3) An error in stating the offence or the particulars required to be stated in a charge sheet is not at any stage of the proceedings to be treated as non-compliance with this Ordinance unless the court thinks that the defendant was misled by the error.

Joinder of counts in charge sheet, etc

58.—(1) Any number of counts either for the same offence or for different offences may be included in the same charge sheet; and the court may—

- (a) convict or acquit the defendant generally on the whole charge sheet; or
- (b) convict the defendant on one or some of the counts and acquit the defendant on other counts.

(2) Where different counts relate to different facts, the court may at any stage of the proceedings order that the defendant be tried separately on any one or more of the counts.

(3) Where the court convicts the defendant generally on the whole charge sheet—

- (a) the legal effect of the conviction is to convict the defendant on each of the counts contained in the charge sheet; and
- (b) the court may pass sentence on the defendant as if the defendant had been separately convicted on each count.

Joinder of persons in charge sheet, etc

59. Where a person is charged with an offence (the “first offence”), that person and any of the following persons may be charged in the same charge sheet; and they may be tried together unless the court orders that they be tried separately—

- (a) a person charged with the same offence as the first offence;
- (b) a person charged with a different offence that was committed in the course of the same transaction as the first offence;
- (c) a person who, in accordance with any enactment, must be treated as having taken part in the commission of the first offence;
- (d) a person charged with attempting to commit the first offence;

- (a) with committing the offence,
- (b) for being a party to the offence, or
- (c) for directly or indirectly inciting another person to commit the offence, whether or not another party to the offence has been charged with or convicted of the offence or is amenable to justice.

- (a) permit the defendant to appear and plead by a legal representative; and
- (b) where the defendant wishes to plead guilty, permit the defendant to send in a guilty plea with the summons—
 - (i) signed or signified in any manner that the Judge or Registrar thinks is sufficient evidence of a genuine plea, and
 - (ii) if so directed in the summons, witnessed by a person whom the Judge or Registrar thinks to be responsible and impartial, in which case, the plea must be treated as a guilty plea for the purpose of the proceedings.

(4) Where a defendant is prosecuted solely in his or her capacity as director or secretary of a company—

Objection to charge sheet

78. An objection to a charge sheet for a formal defect on the face of the charge sheet must be taken immediately after the charge sheet has been read to the defendant and before the defendant pleads to the charge sheet, but not later.

Plea by defendant

79.—(1) When the defendant is called upon to plead, the defendant may plead—

- (a) guilty;
- (b) not guilty; or
- (c) a special plea referred to in section 80 (special plea: previous conviction, acquittal, etc).

(2) The defendant's plea must be recorded by the court.

(3) If the defendant pleads guilty and the court is satisfied that the defendant understands the nature of the plea, the court must proceed as if the defendant had been convicted by the judgment of the court.

(4) If the defendant pleads not guilty, the court must proceed to hear the case.

(5) If the defendant—

- (a) refuses to plead,
- (b) does not answer directly,
- (c) is unable to plead by reason of a physical infirmity, or
- (d) pleads guilty, but the court is not satisfied that the defendant understands the nature of the plea, the court must record that fact and treat the defendant as having pleaded not guilty.

Special plea: previous conviction, acquittal, etc

80.—(1) The defendant may plead any of the following special pleas—

- (a) the court does not have jurisdiction to try the defendant;
- (b) the defendant was previously convicted by a court of competent jurisdiction (including a court of a state or territory other than the Areas) on the same facts for the same offence;
- (c) the defendant was previously acquitted by a court of competent jurisdiction (including a court of a state or territory other than the Areas) on the same facts for the same offence;
- (d) the defendant has obtained a pardon for the offence from the Crown.

(2) If a special plea is pleaded and is denied to be true in fact, the court must try the question of whether the plea is true in fact or not.

(3) If the court finds that the special plea is false in fact, the court must call upon the defendant to plead to the charge.

(4) If the court finds that the special plea is true in fact, the court must discharge the defendant.

Pleading to charge of previous conviction

81.—(1) This section applies where the defendant is charged with an offence, an element of which is that the defendant has previously been convicted of an offence.

(2) When called upon to plead, the defendant is not required to plead to any statement charging the defendant with having previously been convicted of an offence except as set out in subsection (3).

(3) If the defendant pleads guilty to, or at the end of the trial is found guilty on, the rest of the count containing the statement—

- (a) the defendant must be asked if the defendant has been previously convicted as alleged;
- (b) if the defendant admits the previous conviction, the court may proceed to convict the defendant;
- (c) if the defendant denies the previous conviction, refuses to answer or does not answer directly, the court must inquire into the previous conviction before proceeding to convict or acquit the defendant accordingly.

Appearance and plea by corporate body

82.—(1) This section applies where the defendant is a corporate body.

(2) The corporate body may appear and plead to a charge by its representative entering a plea in writing.

(3) If the corporate body either does not appear by its representative or, although appearing by its representative, fails to enter a plea, the court must cause a plea of not guilty to be entered and the trial must proceed accordingly.

(4) In this section, “representative”, in relation to a corporate body, means a person duly appointed by the body for the purpose of doing anything that the representative is authorised to do under this section.

(5) It is not necessary for a representative to be appointed under the seal of the corporate body.

(6) A statement in writing purporting to be signed by the managing director of the corporate body or by any person, by whatever name called, who is, or is one of the persons who are, responsible for the management of the affairs of the body to the effect that the person named in the statement has been appointed as the representative of the body for the purposes of this section is admissible without further proof as prima facie evidence that the person has been so appointed.

Trial

Presence of defendant during trial

83.—(1) The court must require the defendant to be present at trial unless the court—

- (a) orders the removal of the defendant under subsection (3); or
- (b) permits the defendant to be absent from the court under subsection (4) or otherwise dispenses with the personal attendance of the defendant.

(2) Unless the court otherwise orders, the defendant must be unfettered in court.

(3) A defendant is entitled to be present at trial; but if the defendant does not behave properly, the court may—

- (a) order that the defendant be removed and detained in custody;
- (b) proceed with the trial in the defendant’s absence; and
- (c) make such provision as it thinks appropriate for the defendant to be kept informed of the proceedings and for the making of the defendant’s defence.

(4) The court may permit the defendant to be absent from the court during the whole or any part of the trial on such terms as it thinks appropriate.

Witnesses must leave court during trial

84.—(1) If the defendant pleads not guilty, subject to subsection (2), the court must order the witnesses to leave the court until called to give evidence.

(2) The court may permit expert witnesses to remain in court.

(3) The proceedings are not invalid if the court fails to comply with subsection (1).

Hearing of case

85.—(1) After the witnesses have left the court in accordance with section 84 (witnesses must leave court during trial), the court must proceed to hear the case in accordance with the following provisions.

(2) The prosecution must call the witnesses and adduce any other evidence in support of the prosecution case.

(3) At the close of the prosecution case—

(a) if the defence submits that a prima facie case has not been made out against the defendant such as to require the defendant to make a defence and the court sustains the submission, or

(b) if the court, of its own motion, thinks that a prima facie case as mentioned in paragraph (a) has not been made out, the court must acquit the defendant.

(4) Except where the court acquits the defendant in accordance with subsection (3), at the close of the prosecution case, the court must—

(a) call upon the defendant to make a defence;

(b) inform the defendant that the defendant may—

(i) make a statement, without being sworn as a witness, in which case the defendant is not liable to be cross-examined or give evidence in the witness box; or

(ii) give evidence in the witness box after being sworn as a witness, in which case the defendant is liable to be cross-examined as a witness.

(5) If the defendant wishes to make a statement or give evidence in accordance with subsection (4)(b), the defendant must do so before the defence calls witnesses and adduces other evidence in the defendant's defence.

(6) If the defence adduces new material in the defendant's defence that the prosecution could not have foreseen—

(a) the court may adjourn the case; and

(b) the prosecution may, with the permission of the court, adduce evidence to rebut the new material.

(7) Subject to subsection (8), at every trial the prosecution and the defence may open their case and, at the conclusion of the trial, the party who last called a witness may address the court and the other party may then address the court in reply.

(8) Where the Attorney-General and Legal Adviser, a Crown Counsel or an advocate instructed by the Attorney-General and Legal Adviser appears for the prosecution, such a person has a right of reply in all cases.

Procedure at trial of two or more defendants

86. Where two or more defendants are being tried together, the court may regulate the procedure to be followed in any way that appears desirable and that is not inconsistent with the law (including this Ordinance).

Cross-examination of defendant by co-defendant

87. Where, during the joint trial of two or more defendants, a defendant gives evidence under section 85(4)(b)(ii) (hearing of case)—

- (a) the co-defendant may cross-examine the defendant; and
- (b) the cross-examination must take place before cross-examination by the prosecution.

Defendant to be acquitted or convicted

88.—(1) At the conclusion of the trial, the court must consider the whole case and deliver judgment and, for this purpose, may adjourn the proceedings.

(2) The court must—

- (a) convict the defendant;
- (b) acquit the defendant; or
- (c) acquit the defendant on grounds of insanity (see section 102 (acquittal on grounds of insanity)).

(3) If the court convicts the defendant, the court must, after complying with section 116 (allocutus), proceed to consider what sentence to pass in accordance with the law.

(4) If the court acquits the defendant under subsection (2)(b), the defendant must immediately be discharged from custody (unless the defendant is in custody for some other reason).

(5) (Section 103 provides for the court's powers where a defendant is acquitted on grounds of insanity).

Examination of witnesses

Power to call or recall witnesses

89. The court may, at any stage of the proceedings—

- (a) call any person as a witness; or
- (b) recall and further examine any person already examined.

Evidence of witness to be on oath or affirmation

90.—(1) Subject to subsections (2) and (4), a witness must be examined on oath; and the court may administer the oath that is customarily administered to persons of the religion of the witness.

(2) A witness who objects to taking an oath may make an affirmation by solemnly promising and declaring that the evidence to be given by the witness to the court shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

(3) Where a witness makes an affirmation, the affirmation has the same force and effect as if the witness had taken an oath.

(4) A person under the age of 14 years who appears as a witness is to be examined without taking an oath or affirmation.

Order of examination of witnesses

91.—(1) A witness must—

- (a) first, be examined in chief by the party calling the witness;
- (b) then, if another party wishes, be cross-examined by the other party;
- (c) then, if the party calling the witness wishes, be re-examined by that party.

(2) The examination-in-chief and the cross-examination must relate to relevant facts; but the cross-examination need not be confined to the facts to which the witness testified in the examination-in-chief.

(3) Except with the permission of the court, the re-examination must be directed to an explanation of the matters referred to in the cross-examination.

(4) If a new matter is, with the permission of the court, introduced in re-examination, the other party may further cross-examine on that matter.

(5) Where a legal representative appears for a party, the examination-in-chief, cross-examination and re-examination must be conducted by the representative.

Cross-examination of witnesses by co-defendant

92.—(1) This section applies where two or more defendants are being tried together.

(2) Each defendant may cross-examine a witness called by the prosecution before the witness is re-examined.

(3) Where a witness is called by a defendant—

- (a) the witness may be cross-examined by a co-defendant; and
- (b) the cross-examination must take place before cross-examination by the prosecution.

Recalcitrant witnesses

93.—(1) This section applies to—

- (a) a person who appears before the court as a witness either in compliance with a summons or by virtue of an arrest warrant;
- (b) a person who is present in court and is required by the court to give evidence as a witness.

(2) If a person to whom this section applies—

- (a) refuses to take an oath or make an affirmation,
- (b) having taken an oath or made an affirmation, refuses to answer a question put to the person, or
- (c) without reasonable excuse, fails to produce an item that the person is required to produce, the court may, by warrant, commit the person to imprisonment for a term specified in the warrant unless the person consents before the expiry of the term to do what is required of the person.

(3) If the person, upon being brought before the court, again refuses to do what is required of him or her, the court may again, if it thinks it appropriate, by warrant, commit the person to imprisonment for a term, and so again from time to time, until the person consents to do what is required of him or her.

(4) A person who is committed to imprisonment under this section by the Resident Judge's Court may appeal to the Senior Judges' Court; and the provisions of Part 6 (appeals) relating to appeals to the Senior Judges' Court by persons convicted by the Resident Judge's Court apply, with all necessary modifications, to an appeal under this subsection.

(5) Nothing in this section—

- (a) affects the liability of a person committed to imprisonment under this section to any other punishment or proceeding for failing to do what is required of the person; or
- (b) prevents the court from disposing of the case in the meantime in accordance with any other sufficient evidence.

Witnesses unable to speak

94.—(1) A witness who is unable to speak may take the oath or affirm and may give evidence in any manner in which the witness is intelligible, such as by writing or by signs; but the writing must be made, and the signs made, in open court.

(2) Evidence given in accordance with subsection (1) must be treated as oral evidence.

Serious offences

Serious offences: disclosure of prosecution evidence

95.—(1) At least 30 days before the trial of a defendant for a serious offence, the prosecution must serve on the defendant and file with the court—

- (a) a list of the names of the witnesses that the prosecution intends to call; and
- (b) a summary of the evidence that it is intended that each witness will give.

(2) The court may, at any stage of the proceedings, with the consent of the defendant—

- (a) reduce the period of 30 days referred to in subsection (1) (in which case the prosecution complies with that subsection if it does so within the reduced time period);
- (b) dispense with subsection (1) in respect of one or more witnesses and order that the dispensation be subject to such conditions as the court thinks appropriate to ensure that the defendant has a fair trial.

(3) Where the court makes such dispensation it may nevertheless, at any time before hearing the evidence of the witness, order that a summary of the evidence that it is intended that the witness will give be served on the defendant within such period as the court thinks appropriate.

(4) In this section, “serious offence” means an offence, the maximum penalty for which is imprisonment for a term of five years or more (including imprisonment for life).

Serious offences: additional witnesses

96.—(1) Subject to subsections (2) and (4) and to section 85(6), the prosecution may not call a witness to give evidence at the trial of a defendant for a serious offence unless—

- (a) section 95(1)(b) (serious offences: disclosure of prosecution evidence) was complied with in respect of the witness; or
- (b) the court has dispensed with that requirement in respect of the witness in accordance with section 95(2)(b).

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to the following witnesses—

- (a) a co-defendant who has already been acquitted or convicted;
- (b) a witness whose evidence is of a formal nature;
- (c) a witness if—
 - (i) the prosecution became aware of the witness’s evidence, or the witness became available, after the date on which section 95(1) was required to be complied with; and
 - (ii) notice that the prosecution intends to call the witness to give evidence has been served on the defendant and filed with the court;
- (d) a witness if the prosecution became aware of the witness’s evidence, or the witness became available, on the day on which the witness is called;
- (e) a witness called to rebut new material adduced in the defendant’s defence that the prosecution could not reasonably have foreseen (see section 85(6)).

(3) If the prosecution—

- (a) gives notice that it intends to call a witness to which subsection (1) does not apply, and
- (b) has not served on the defendant or filed with the court a summary of the evidence that it is intended that the witness will give, the court may order the prosecution to do so, and may adjourn or postpone the trial for that purpose.

(4) If the prosecution gives notice that it intends to call a witness in respect of whom section 95(1)(b) has not been complied with, the court may—

- (a) despite subsection (1), allow the witness to be called, if it is in the interests of justice to do so;
- (b) adjourn the trial to enable section 95(1)(b) to be complied with in respect of the witness.

(5) In this section “serious offence” has the same meaning as in section 95 (serious offences: disclosure of prosecution evidence).

Other provisions relating to evidence

Taking evidence by commission

97.—(1) A court may make an order for evidence to be taken on oath or affirmation by a witness or other person before an officer of the court or other person or persons at any place in or outside the Areas.

(2) The court may order evidence taken in accordance with subsection (1) to be filed in court and may allow the prosecution or the defence to produce the evidence on such terms as the court orders.

Interpretation of evidence for defendant

98.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), where evidence is given in a language that the defendant does not understand and the defendant is present in person, the evidence must be interpreted for the defendant in open court in a language that the defendant understands.

(2) Where the defendant is represented by a legal representative, interpretation may, with the consent of the representative and the approval of the court, be dispensed with.

(3) Where documents are put in for the purposes of formal proof, the court may require such of the documents as the court thinks necessary to be interpreted.

(4) The court may test the ability of the interpreter in such manner as it thinks appropriate and may administer to the interpreter such oath or affirmation as the court thinks appropriate that the interpreter will well and truly carry out the interpretation.

View of locus

99.—(1) The court may view a place, person or thing connected with proceedings.

(2) Unless the court otherwise orders, the defendant must be present at the view.

(3) The court may give such directions relating to the view as it thinks appropriate.

Record of proceedings

100.—(1) The court must arrange for proceedings and evidence to be recorded—

- (a) in writing;
- (b) by means of shorthand notes; or
- (c) by mechanical, electronic or other means.

(2) A person may request the court to provide—

- (a) a written record made in accordance with subsection (1)(a); or
- (b) a transcript of any notes or recordings which have been made in accordance with subsection (1)(b) or (c).

(3) On receipt of a request, the court may—

- (a) make arrangements for a transcript requested to be made and supplied to the person making the request; or

- (b) refuse the request if it considers that there is good reason to do so.
- (4) The court may require the person making the request to pay, in advance, the reasonable costs for the supply of a transcript.
- (5) The following must be treated as a record of the court—
 - (a) any written record made in accordance with paragraph (1)(a);
 - (b) where one is made, any transcript made of notes or recordings which have been made in accordance with paragraph (1)(b) or (c), which contains a statement made by the individual who made the transcript, that the transcript has been transcribed from the material supplied by the court to the best of that individual's ability.
- (6) A copy of the record of the court, signed and certified as a true copy of the record of the court by a Registrar, must, without further proof, be admitted as evidence of the proceedings and of the statements made by witnesses.
- (7) Nothing in this section prevents a person from applying to the court to have the record of the court amended on the basis that it contains a material inaccuracy.

Mentally-disordered defendants

Defendants incapable of following proceedings by reason of mental disorder

101.—(1) This section applies where, on a person being called upon to plead or at any time thereafter until the conclusion of the trial, the question arises (at the instance of the defence or otherwise) whether the defendant is incapable of following the proceedings by reason of a mental disorder.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), the court must direct such inquiry as it thinks appropriate with a view to ascertaining whether the defendant is incapable of following the proceedings by reason of a mental disorder.

(3) If, having regard to the nature of the alleged mental disorder, the court thinks that it is expedient to do so and in the interest of the defendant, the court may postpone directing an inquiry under subsection (2) until any time up to the opening of the case for the defence; and, if the defendant is before that time acquitted of the charge (or each of the charges) on which the defendant is being tried, no such inquiry is to be directed.

(4) Subject to subsection (7), if, after an inquiry under subsection (2), the court is satisfied that the defendant is incapable of following the proceedings by reason of a mental disorder—

- (a) the trial must not proceed (or continue);
- (b) the court must determine whether it is satisfied, in respect of each offence—
 - (i) beyond reasonable doubt, that the defendant did the act or made the omission charged against the defendant as the offence; and
 - (ii) on the balance of probabilities, that there are no grounds for acquitting the defendant;
- (c) if the court is satisfied as to the matters referred to in paragraph (b)(i) and (ii), it must make a finding that the defendant did the act or made the omission charged; and
- (d) if the court is not satisfied as to the matters referred to in paragraph (b)(i) and (ii), it must acquit the accused of the offence as if the trial had proceeded to a conclusion in respect of the offence.

(5) A determination under subsection (4)(b) may be made—

- (a) on the evidence (if any) already given in the trial; and
- (b) on such evidence as may be adduced or further adduced by the prosecution or adduced by a person appointed by the court to put the case for the defence.

(6) Where, in relation to a defendant acquitted under subsection (4)(d), the court is satisfied—

- (a) as to the matter referred to in subsection (4)(b)(i), and

- (b) that the defendant was not criminally responsible for the act or omission charged against the defendant as the offence on the grounds set out in section 12 of the Criminal Code(a) (insanity) at the time of doing the act or making the omission, the court must state whether the acquittal is on that ground (see section 102 (acquittal on grounds of insanity)).

(7) Before proceeding in accordance with subsection (4)(a) to (d), the court may adjourn the proceedings for such period or further period or periods (together not exceeding 4 months in total) as it thinks appropriate; but if, after the adjournment and such further inquiry as the court may direct, the court is still satisfied that the defendant is incapable of following the proceedings by reason of a mental disorder, the court must proceed in accordance with subsection (4)(a) to (d).

Acquittal on grounds of insanity

102.—(1) This section applies where—

- (a) an act or omission is charged against a person as an offence;
- (b) on the trial of the defendant, evidence is given that the defendant was not criminally responsible for the act or omission on the grounds set out in section 12 of the Criminal Code (insanity); and
- (c) the court is satisfied that the defendant—
 - (i) did the act or made the omission charged; but
 - (ii) was not criminally responsible for the act or omission on the grounds set out in section 12 of the Criminal Code (insanity).

(2) The court must—

- (a) make a finding that the defendant did the act or made the omission charged; and
- (b) acquit the defendant on grounds of insanity.

Powers of court, etc to deal with persons incapable of following proceedings by reason of mental disorder or acquitted on grounds of insanity

103.—(1) This section applies where the court—

- (a) being satisfied that the defendant is incapable of following the proceedings by reason of a mental disorder, makes a finding under section 101(4)(c) that the defendant did the act or made the omission charged; or
- (b) acquits the defendant on grounds of insanity under section 102(2)(b).

(2) The court must make one of the following orders—

- (a) an order discharging the defendant;
- (b) an order that the defendant be detained during the Administrator's pleasure.

(3) For the purposes of making an order under subsection (2), the court may—

- (a) direct such inquiry as to the defendant's mental health as it thinks appropriate;
- (b) order the defendant to be detained in custody or in a mental hospital, or criminal mental hospital, appointed under the Mental Patients Ordinance(b) pending the outcome of the inquiry.

(a) Cap. 154, Laws of Cyprus, 1959 ed. Legislation of the former colony of Cyprus has effect in the Areas by virtue of article 5 of the Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia Order in Council 1960 (S.I. 1960 No. 1369, amended by S.I. 1966 No. 1415). Schedule 2 to the Interpretation Ordinance 2012 provides for the interpretation of such legislation

(b) Cap. 252, Laws of Cyprus, 1959 ed. Legislation of the former colony of Cyprus has effect in the Areas by virtue of article 5 of the Sovereign Base Areas of Akrotiri and Dhekelia Order in Council 1960 (UK) (S.I. 1960 No. 1369, amended by S.I. 1966 No. 1415). Schedule 2 to the Interpretation Ordinance 2012 provides for the interpretation of such legislation. For the appointment of mental hospitals under the Mental Patients Ordinance, see the Mental Hospitals (Appointment) Proclamation 2013 (Public instrument 39/2013).

(4) Where the court orders a person to be detained during the Administrator's pleasure, the Administrator may, from time to time, give such directions as the Administrator thinks appropriate as to the custody of the person.

(5) An order under subsection (2)(a) discharging the defendant does not, except in the case of a defendant acquitted on grounds of insanity, operate as a bar to subsequent proceedings against the defendant for the same offence or on account of the same facts.

Alteration or quashing of charge

Alteration of defective charge sheet

104.—(1) If at any stage of the proceedings the court thinks that the charge sheet is defective either in substance or form, the court may make such order for the alteration of the charge sheet (either by amending the charge sheet or by substituting or adding a new count) as the court thinks necessary in the circumstances of the case.

(2) Where a charge sheet is altered under subsection (1)—

- (a) a note of the order for alteration must be made on the charge sheet;
- (b) the prosecution must file an updated charge sheet which reflects the alteration made; and
- (c) for the purpose of all proceedings, the charge sheet must be treated as having been filed in the altered form.

Procedure on alteration of charge sheet

105.—(1) Where a charge sheet is altered under section 104 (alteration of defective charge sheet), the court must at once call upon the defendant to—

- (a) plead to the altered charge sheet; and
- (b) state whether the defendant is ready to be tried on the altered charge sheet.

(2) If the defendant states that the defendant is not ready to be tried, the court must consider the defendant's reasons.

(3) If the court thinks that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely to prejudice the defence or the prosecution, the court must—

- (a) adjourn the trial for such period as the court thinks necessary; or
- (b) order a new trial.

(4) If the court thinks that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely to prejudice the defence or the prosecution, the court may proceed immediately with the trial.

(5) Where a charge sheet is altered after a trial has begun, the evidence already given during the trial may be used without being re-heard; but the court must permit the parties to recall or re-summon a witness and examine or cross-examine the witness in relation to the alteration.

Proof of part of charge or of offence not contained in charge sheet, etc

106.—(1) If part only of the charge against the defendant is proved and the part so proved constitutes an offence, the defendant may be convicted of the offence that the defendant is proved to have committed without the need to alter the charge sheet.

(2) Where the defendant is charged with committing an offence, the defendant may be convicted of attempting to commit the offence without the need to alter the charge sheet.

(3) If the defendant is proved to have done an act with the intent of committing an offence with which the defendant is charged and it is an offence (the "relevant offence") to do that act with that intent, the defendant may be convicted of the relevant offence without the need to alter the charge sheet.

(4) Where at the conclusion of a trial the court is satisfied that—

- (a) it is proved that the defendant committed an offence that is not contained in the charge sheet,
- (b) the defendant cannot be convicted of the offence without the charge sheet being altered, and
- (c) if convicted of the offence, the defendant would not be liable to a greater penalty than if convicted on the unaltered charge sheet, the court may, if it thinks that the defence would not be prejudiced thereby, order that a count be added to the charge sheet charging the defendant with the offence.

(5) If a count is added under subsection (4), the court must give judgment as if the count had been contained in the original charge sheet filed.

Quashing of charge

107.—(1) If a charge sheet does not state, and cannot, without injustice, be made to state, an offence, the charge must be quashed either on a motion made before the defendant pleads or on a motion made in arrest of judgment (see section 109).

(2) The defendant must give a written statement of a motion referred to in subsection (1) to the Registrar; and the statement must be entered on the record.

(3) The quashing of a charge under this section does not operate as a bar to subsequent proceedings against the defendant on account of the same facts.

Miscellaneous

Decisions where court consists of more than one Judge

108.—(1) This section applies where a court consists of more than one Judge.

(2) In deciding whether to acquit or convict a defendant, the defendant must be acquitted unless a majority of the court finds the defendant guilty.

(3) In deciding what sentence to pass, if there is an equality of votes, the president of the court has an additional or casting vote.

Motion in arrest of judgment

109.—(1) The defendant may, at any time before sentence, whether on a guilty plea or otherwise, move a motion in arrest of judgment on the ground that the charge sheet does not, after any alteration that the court is willing to and has the power to make, state an offence that the court has jurisdiction to try.

(2) The court may hear and determine the motion at the same sitting or adjourn the proceedings.

(3) If the court decides in favour of the defendant, it must discharge the defendant in respect of the charge.

(4) A discharge under subsection (3) does not operate as a bar to subsequent proceedings against the defendant for the same offence or on account of the same facts.

Variance between facts proved at trial and charge sheet

110.—(1) Any variance between the facts proved at trial and the statement of the offence in the charge sheet does not affect the validity of the proceedings.

(2) If, on the application of the defendant, the court thinks that the variance has misled the defendant and prejudiced the defence, the court may adjourn the trial and permit a witness to be recalled and such questions to be put to the witness that, by reason of the terms of the charge sheet, may have been omitted.

Withdrawal of charge

111.—(1) The court may, at any time before judgment, permit the prosecution to withdraw the charge if the prosecution satisfies the court that there are sufficient grounds to do so.

(2) If the charge is withdrawn, the court must—

- (a) where the defendant has pleaded to the charge, acquit the defendant;
- (b) where the defendant has not pleaded to the charge, discharge the defendant.

(3) A discharge under subsection (2)(b) does not operate as a bar to subsequent proceedings against the defendant for the same offence or on account of the same facts.

Judgment

Delivery of judgment

112.—(1) Judgment in a case must be delivered in open court, or the substance of the judgment must be explained in open court, either immediately after the end of the trial or at some subsequent time, notice of which must be given to the parties.

(2) If the defendant is in custody, the defendant must be brought before the court to hear judgment delivered.

(3) If the defendant is not in custody, the defendant must be required to attend before the court to hear judgment delivered, except where—

- (a) the court determines the case in the defendant's absence in accordance with section 71 (non-appearance of defendant or prosecution) or section 83 (presence of defendant during trial);
- (b) the court has dispensed with personal attendance of the defendant during the trial and the sentence is only a fine; or
- (c) the defendant is acquitted.

(4) A judgment is not invalid by reason only of—

- (a) the absence of a party or a legal representative on the day notified for delivery of the judgment; or

Payment after committal

(2) The term of imprisonment must be reduced by the number of days bearing as nearly as possible the same proportion to the total number of days of imprisonment for which the person was committed as the sum paid in part satisfaction of the penalty bears to the total sum due.

- (c) given to the Registrar within 14 days after the date of the application for the case to be stated or, as the case may be, of the mandatory order under subsection (6)(b).

(9) The Senior Judges' Court must consider and determine the question arising on the case stated and may do one or more of the following—

- (a) set aside, affirm or amend the decision in respect of which the case has been stated;
- (b) remit the matter to the Judge with the opinion of the Senior Judges' Court on the case stated;

- (e) make any other order that the Senior Judges' Court thinks appropriate.

(10) A person who applies for a case to be stated in respect of a decision of the Resident Judge's Court loses any right to appeal (or to apply for permission to appeal) against the decision to the Senior Judges' Court.

PART 7

Bail

Grant of bail

Grant of bail

152.—(1) Subject to the subsections (6) and (7), a court may at any stage of the proceedings grant bail to a person charged with, or convicted of, an offence.

(2) A person on bail must surrender to the custody of the court at the time and place from time to time appointed.

(3) The court may require a person to whom it is intended to grant bail—

- (a) to execute a bail bond (with or without sureties); or
- (b) give other security for the person's surrender to custody (for example, by depositing a sum of money with the court).

(4) The court may impose conditions on the grant of bail (to be complied with before or after the person is released); and if the court imposes conditions, the person to whom bail is granted must comply with every condition.

(5) Without limiting subsection (4), conditions may be imposed to secure that the person on bail—

- (a) surrenders to custody;
- (b) does not commit an offence while on bail;
- (c) does not interfere with witnesses or otherwise obstruct the course of justice (whether in relation to himself or herself or to any other person);
- (d) makes himself or herself available for the purpose of enabling inquiries or a report to be made to assist the court in dealing with the person for the offence.

(6) Bail may not be granted to a person who has been convicted of a relevant offence.

(7) A person charged with a relevant offence may not be granted bail except by order of a Senior Judge.

(8) If a person appears before the Resident Judge's Court charged with a relevant offence, unless a Senior Judge is sitting as a member of the court, the court must remand the person in custody to be brought before a Senior Judge to make a decision about bail.

(9) The Senior Judge may hear the matter from outside the Areas using a live link.

(10) No appeal may be brought under section 161 (defence appeal against withholding of bail) or 162 (prosecution appeal against grant of bail) against a decision of a Senior Judge under subsection (8).

(11) Subsection (10) does not prevent a person applying for bail, or to vary bail, following a change of circumstances.

(12) In this section, “relevant offence” means an offence for which the mandatory penalty is imprisonment for life.

(13) (Section 153 (right to bail in certain cases) provides for a right to bail in certain cases).

Right to bail in certain cases

153.—(1) This section applies to a defendant who is charged with an offence (but has not been convicted of the offence).

(2) Subject to subsections (3) to (9) and to section 152(8), a defendant to whom this section applies must be granted bail if, in the course of or in connection with proceedings for the offence—

- (a) the defendant appears or is brought before a court;
- (b) the defendant applies to a court for bail (or to vary bail);
- (c) the defendant appeals under section 161 against a decision to withhold bail from the defendant; or
- (d) the prosecution appeals under section 162 against a decision to grant bail to the defendant.

(3) The defendant need not be granted bail if the court thinks that there are substantial grounds for believing that the defendant, if released on bail (whether or not conditions are imposed on the grant of bail), would—

- (a) fail to surrender to custody;
- (b) commit an offence while on bail; or
- (c) interfere with witnesses or otherwise obstruct the course of justice (whether in relation to himself or herself or to any other person).

(4) The defendant need not be granted bail if the defendant was on bail in criminal proceedings on the date of the offence.

(5) The defendant need not be granted bail if, having been released on bail in or in connection with the proceedings for the offence, the defendant has been arrested for failing to surrender to custody or for failing to comply with a condition imposed on the grant of bail.

(6) The defendant need not be granted bail if the court thinks that the defendant should be kept in custody for the defendant’s own protection or welfare.

(7) The defendant need not be granted bail if the court thinks that it has not been practicable to obtain sufficient information for the purpose of taking decisions under this Part due to lack of time since the institution of proceedings against the defendant.

(8) Where the defendant’s case is adjourned for inquiries or a report, the defendant need not be granted bail if the court thinks that it would be impracticable to complete the inquiries or make the report without keeping the defendant in custody.

(9) The defendant need not be granted bail if the defendant is in custody pursuant to the sentence of a court.

Application for bail by defendant who appeals to Senior Judges’ Court

154.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), this section applies where a defendant convicted of an offence by the Resident Judge’s Court files an application for permission to appeal against the conviction or sentence to the Senior Judges’ Court.

(2) This section does not apply where the defendant is convicted of an offence for which the mandatory penalty is imprisonment for life (see section 152(6) which provides that bail may not be granted to a person who has been convicted of such an offence).

(3) An application for bail (or to vary bail)—

- (a) must be made to the Senior Judges' Court; and
- (b) may be heard by a Senior Judge outside the Areas using a live link.

(4) There is no appeal against a decision of the Senior Judges' Court to grant or refuse (or refuse to vary) bail.

(5) Subsection (4) does not prevent a person applying for bail, or to vary bail, following a change of circumstances.

(6) (Section 140 (appeal against acquittal: Senior Judge may issue arrest warrant, etc) makes provision for bail in the case of a prosecution appeal against acquittal or sentence).

Considerations for court when deciding whether or not to grant bail

155. In deciding whether or not to grant bail to a person (including on an appeal under section 161 or 162), the court must have regard to any considerations that appear relevant, such as, for example—

- (a) the nature and seriousness of the offence (and the probable method of dealing with the person for it, if convicted);
- (b) the character, antecedents, associations and community ties of the person;
- (c) the person's record as respects the fulfilment of obligations under previous grants of bail in criminal proceedings;
- (d) the strength of the evidence of the person's having committed the offence;
- (e) in the case of a person convicted of an offence by the Resident Judge's Court who files an application for permission to appeal to the Senior Judges' Court, the period that is likely to elapse before the application or appeal will be heard.

Release of person in custody on grant of bail

156.—(1) Where the court grants bail to a person, the person must be released as soon as—

- (a) any bail bond or other security required by the court has been executed or given; and
- (b) every condition that must be complied with before the person is released has been complied with.

(2) If the person is in custody, once the requirements in subsection (1) are satisfied, the court must issue a warrant of deliverance requiring the officer in charge of the person to release the person without delay.

(3) Nothing in this section nor in any warrant of deliverance requires the release of a person who is liable to be detained in custody for some matter other than that in respect of which bail is granted.

(4) This section is subject to section 162 (prosecution appeal against grant of bail).

Absconding by person on bail: offence

157.—(1) A person who is on bail commits an offence if the person fails, without reasonable excuse, to surrender to custody at the time and place from time to time appointed.

(2) A person who is on bail commits an offence if the person—

- (a) fails to surrender to custody at the appointed time and place but has a reasonable excuse for the failure; and
- (b) fails to surrender to custody at the appointed place as soon after the appointed time as is reasonably practicable.

(3) It is for the person on bail to adduce evidence that there was a reasonable excuse for the failure to surrender to custody.

(4) A person convicted of an offence under subsection (1) or (2) is liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 2 years or a fine not exceeding €10,000 or to both.

Variation of bail terms, etc

Court may require security to be increased, etc

158.—(1) This section applies where, after a person is granted bail, a Judge is satisfied, on the application of the prosecution, that—

- (a) in a case where a person is granted bail without executing a bail bond or giving other security for the person's surrender to custody, the person should be required to execute a bail bond or give other security for the person's surrender to custody;
- (b) the amount of the bail bond should be increased;
- (c) the surety or sureties have become insufficient; or
- (d) the amount of any other security given should be increased.

(2) The Judge may issue an arrest warrant ordering the person on bail to be brought before the court.

(3) On the person being brought before the court, the court may require the person to do any of the following—

- (a) execute a bail bond or give other security for the person's surrender to custody;
- (b) execute a new bail bond for a larger amount;
- (c) find sufficient sureties;
- (d) increase the security given;

(4) If the person fails to comply with a requirement under subsection (3), the court may remand the person in custody.

(5) Sections 24 to 29 (arrest warrants) apply, with all necessary modifications, to an arrest warrant issued under this section.

Person on bail about to leave the Areas

159.—(1) Where a Judge is satisfied by evidence on oath or affirmation that a person on bail is about to leave the Areas, the Judge may issue an arrest warrant ordering the person to be brought before the court.

(2) On the person being brought before the court, the court may—

- (a) remand the person in custody; or
- (b) grant further bail to the person in accordance with this Part.

(3) Sections 24 to 29 apply, with all necessary modifications, to an arrest warrant issued under this section.

Application to vary, etc bail conditions

160. Where a court grants bail to a person (whether or not conditions are imposed on the grant of bail), the court may, on the application of the person or the prosecution, vary the conditions imposed on the grant of bail by—

- (a) amending one or more of the existing conditions;
- (b) cancelling one or more of the existing conditions;
- (c) imposing one or more conditions (whether or not there are any existing conditions).

Appeals against withholding or grant of bail

Defence appeal against withholding of bail

161.—(1) This section applies where—

- (a) the Resident Judge’s Court has withheld bail from a person (the “defendant”) charged with, or convicted of, an offence; and
- (b) the defendant wishes to appeal to the Senior Judges’ Court against the withholding of bail.

(2) The defendant must, within 10 days after the date of the decision to withhold bail, serve a notice of appeal on—

- (a) the Registrar; and
- (b) the prosecutor.

(3) A notice of appeal may be served only while the defendant is in custody; and if the defendant is granted bail or otherwise released from custody before an appeal under this section is heard, the appeal must be treated as being abandoned.

(4) It is sufficient for the purposes of subsection (2) for a defendant in custody to deliver the notice of appeal to the officer having charge of the defendant for transmission to the Registrar and the prosecutor.

(5) The notice of appeal must—

- (a) specify each offence that the defendant is charged with or convicted of;
- (b) explain why the Senior Judges’ Court should not withhold bail;
- (c) explain what further information or legal argument, if any, has become available since the decision of the Resident Judge’s Court;
- (d) propose the terms of any suggested conditions of bail; and
- (e) if the defendant wishes the hearing of the appeal to be expedited, explain why the hearing needs to be expedited.

(6) A prosecutor who opposes the appeal must—

- (a) notify the defendant and the Registrar as soon as possible; and
- (b) serve on the defendant and the Registrar notice of the reasons for opposition.

(7) On receipt of the notice of appeal, the Registrar must arrange for the Senior Judges’ Court to hear the appeal as soon as practicable.

(8) The appeal may be heard by a Senior Judge outside the Areas using a live link.

(9) The appeal is by way of rehearing, and the Senior Judges’ Court must grant or withhold bail in accordance with this Part.

(10) The Senior Judges’ Court may extend the time limit referred to in subsection (2).

Prosecution appeal against grant of bail

162.—(1) This section applies where—

- (a) the Resident Judge’s Court grants bail to a person (the “defendant”) charged with, or convicted of, an offence punishable with imprisonment; and
- (b) the Attorney-General and Legal Adviser wishes to appeal to the Senior Judges’ Court against the grant of bail.

(2) The prosecutor must inform the Resident Judge’s Court of the decision to appeal—

- (a) at the end of the hearing during which the Resident Judge’s Court granted bail; and
- (b) before the defendant is released on bail.

(3) If informed in accordance with subsection (2), the Resident Judge's Court must remand the defendant in custody pending determination of the appeal.

(4) The prosecutor must, within 4 hours after informing the Resident Judge's Court of the decision to appeal, serve a notice of appeal on—

- (a) the Registrar; and
- (b) the defendant.

(5) The notice of appeal must specify—

- (a) each offence that the defendant is charged with or convicted of;
- (b) the decision under appeal;
- (c) the reasons given for the grant of bail; and
- (d) the grounds of appeal.

(6) On receipt of the notice of appeal, the Registrar must arrange for the Senior Judges' Court to hear the appeal as soon as practicable.

(7) The appeal may be heard by a Senior Judge outside the Areas using a live link.

(8) The appeal is by way of rehearing, and the Senior Judges' Court must grant or withhold bail in accordance with this Part.

(9) The prosecutor may abandon an appeal to the Senior Judges' Court at any time by serving a notice of abandonment on—

- (a) the defendant; and
- (b) the Registrar.

(10) The Registrar must give instructions for the defendant to be released on the bail granted by the Resident Judge's Court if—

- (a) the prosecutor fails to serve a notice of appeal within the time referred to in subsection (4); or
- (b) the prosecutor serves a notice of abandonment under subsection (9).

Bail bonds

Bail bond

163.—(1) A bail bond—

- (a) must be in the prescribed form; and
- (b) must contain an acknowledgment on the part of the person executing the bond that the person owes the sum of money specified in the bond to the Crown.

(2) If the person executing the bail bond surrenders to custody, and continues to surrender to custody, at the time and place from time to time appointed, the bail bond is discharged, and the acknowledgment referred to in subsection (1)(b) becomes void.

(3) The court may require a bail bond to be executed with or without sureties.

(4) Where a person is required to execute a bail bond (with or without sureties), the court may permit the person to deposit a sum of money fixed by the court with the Fiscal Officer instead of executing the bond.

Discharge of surety

164.—(1) Where a person executes a bail bond with a surety, the surety may, at any time, apply to the court to discharge the bail bond so far as it relates to the applicant.

(2) If an application under subsection (1) is made, unless the person who executed the bail bond voluntarily appears before the court, the Judge must issue an arrest warrant ordering that person to be brought before the court.

(3) When that person appears before the court (whether voluntarily or pursuant to an arrest warrant), the court—

- (a) must order the bail bond to be discharged so far as it relates to the applicant; and
- (b) may require the person who executed the bail bond to find a new surety and, if the person fails to do so, may remand the person in custody.

(4) Sections 24 to 29 (arrest warrants) apply, with all necessary modifications, to an arrest warrant issued under this section.

Death of surety before bail bond ordered to be paid

165.—(1) This section applies where—

- (a) a person executes a bail bond with a surety; and
- (b) the surety dies before the court orders under section 166 (court may order bail bond to be paid) that the sum of money specified in the bond be paid.

(2) The surety's estate has no liability in respect of the bond.

(3) The court may require the person who executed the bail bond to find a new surety and, if the person fails to do so, may issue an arrest warrant ordering that person to be brought before the court and remand the person in custody.

(4) Sections 24 to 29 (arrest warrants) apply, with all necessary modifications, to an arrest warrant issued under this section.

Court may order bail bond to be paid

166.—(1) This section applies if a person (the “defendant”) to whom bail is granted and who has executed a bail bond fails to surrender to custody at the time and place from time to time appointed.

- (b) order the sum of money specified in the bond to be paid; and
- (c) notify the defendant and any surety of the order.

(3) A defendant or surety notified of the order under subsection (2) must pay the sum of money specified in the bond to the court within six days after the date of notification.

(4) If a defendant or surety notified in accordance with subsection (3) fails to pay the sum of money specified in the bond, or does not provide a reasonable excuse for the failure, within six days after the date of notification, the sum of money specified in the bond may be recovered from the defendant or surety in the same way as a penalty under this Ordinance.

- (c) the person does not provide a reasonable excuse for the failure.

(2) The court may order that the security be forfeited in whole or in part.

(3) Despite an order under subsection (2), if the court is subsequently satisfied, on an application made by the person giving the security, that the person did, after all, have a reasonable excuse for the person's failure to surrender to custody, the court may—

- (a) cancel the forfeiture; or
- (b) declare that the forfeiture extends to part only of the security.

(4) A security that has been ordered to be forfeited by a court must, to the extent that the security forfeited consists of money, be paid into public funds.

- (a) as a result of an improper, unreasonable or negligent act or omission on the part of the representative; or

(b) that, in the light of such an act or omission occurring after the costs were incurred, the court considers it is unreasonable to expect that party to pay.

(2) Costs awarded against a legal representative appearing for the prosecutor in a public prosecution must be paid from public funds.

(b) if the owner cannot be ascertained, make any other order in relation to the property that the court thinks appropriate.

(3) If an order under subsection (2) is made, a person may bring proceedings against the person in possession of the property by virtue of the order for the recovery of the property; but unless proceedings are brought within six months after the date on which the order is made, the right to bring the proceedings is lost.

- (b) the court thinks that, by such force, another person has been dispossessed of immovable property.

(2) The court may order that possession of the immovable property be restored to the other person.

(3) In the case of the forfeiture of a recognisance conditional on the person appearing and receiving judgment at some future sitting of the court, nothing in section 166 prevents the court from passing any other sentence that the court thinks appropriate and is able to pass.

SCHEDULE 1 JUDGES' RULES

(Section 14)

These rules do not affect the principles:

- (a) that citizens have a duty to help a police officer to discover and apprehend offenders;
- (b) that police officers, otherwise than by arrest, cannot compel any person against his will to come to or remain in any police station;
- (c) that every person at any stage of an investigation should be able to communicate and to consult privately with a solicitor. This is so even if he is in custody provided that in such a case no unreasonable delay or hindrance is caused to the processes of investigation or the administration of justice by his doing so;
- (d) that when a police officer who is making inquiries of any person about an offence has enough evidence to prefer a charge against that person for the offence, he should without delay cause that person to be charged or informed that he may be prosecuted for the offence;
- (e) that it is a fundamental condition of the admissibility of evidence against any person, equally of any oral answer given by that person to a question put by a police officer and of any statement made by that person, that it shall have been voluntary, in the sense that it has not been obtained from him by fear of prejudice or hope of advantage, exercised or held out by a person in authority, or by oppression.

The principle set out in paragraph (e) above is overriding and applicable in all cases. Within that principle the following rules are put forward as a guide to police officers conducting investigations. Non-conformity with these rules may render answers and statements liable to be excluded from evidence in subsequent criminal proceedings.

RULES

I. When a police officer is trying to discover whether, or by whom, an offence has been committed, he is entitled to question any person, whether suspected or not, from whom he thinks that useful information may be obtained. This is so whether or not the person in question has been taken into custody so long as he has not been charged with the offence or informed that he may be prosecuted for it.

II. As soon as a police officer has evidence which would afford reasonable grounds for suspecting that a person has committed an offence, he shall caution that person or cause him to be cautioned before putting to him any questions, or further questions, relating to that offence.

The caution shall be in the following terms:

“You are not obliged to say anything unless you wish to do so but what you say may be put into writing and given in evidence.”

When after being cautioned a person is being questioned, or elects to make a statement, a record shall be kept of the time and place at which any such questioning or statement began and ended and of the persons present.

III.

- (a) Where a person is charged with or informed that he may be prosecuted for an offence he shall be cautioned in the following terms:

“Do you wish to say anything? You are not obliged to say anything unless you wish to do so but whatever you say will be taken down in writing and may be given in evidence.”

- (b) It is only in exceptional cases that questions relating to the offence should be put to the accused person after he has been charged or informed that he may be prosecuted. Such questions may be put where they are necessary for the purpose of preventing or minimising harm or loss to some other person or to the public or for clearing up an ambiguity in a previous answer or statement.

Before any such questions are put the accused should be cautioned in these terms:

“I wish to put some questions to you about the offence with which you have been charged (or about the offence for which you may be prosecuted). You are not obliged to answer any of these questions, but if you do the questions and answers will be taken down in writing and may be given in evidence.”

Any questions put and answers given relating to the offence must be contemporaneously recorded in full and the record signed by that person or if he refuses by the interrogating officer.

- (c) When such a person is being questioned, or elects to make a statement, a record shall be kept of the time and place at which any questioning or statement began and ended and of the persons present.

IV. All written statements made after caution shall be taken in the following manner:

- (a) If a person says that he wants to make a statement he shall be told that it is intended to make a written record of what he says. He shall always be asked whether he wishes to write down himself what he wants to say; if he says that he cannot write or that he would like someone to write it for him, a police officer may offer to write the statement for him. If he accepts the offer the police officer shall, before starting, ask the person making the statement to sign, or make his mark to, the following:

“I,, wish to make a statement. I want someone to write down what I say. I have been told that I need not say anything unless I wish to do so and that whatever I say may be given in evidence.”

- (b) Any person writing his own statement shall be allowed to do so without any prompting as distinct from indicating to him what matters are material.
- (c) The person making the statement, if he is going to write it himself, shall be asked to write out and sign before writing what he wants to say, the following:

“I make this statement of my own free will. I have been told that I need not say anything unless I wish to do so and that whatever I say may be given in evidence.”

When he has finished reading it he shall be asked to write and sign or make his mark on the following certificate at the end of the statement:

If the person making the statement cannot read, or refuses to read it, the officer who has taken it down shall read it over to him and ask him whether he would like to correct, alter or add anything and to put his signature or make his mark at the end. The police officer shall then certify on the statement itself what he has done.

V. If at any time after a person has been charged with, or has been informed that he may be prosecuted for an offence a police officer wishes to bring to the notice of that person any written statement made by another person who in respect of the same offence has also been charged or informed that he may be prosecuted, he shall hand to that person a true copy of such written statement, but nothing shall be said or done to invite any reply or comment. If that person says that he would like to make a statement in reply, or starts to say something, he shall at once be cautioned or further cautioned as prescribed by rule III(a) .

VI. Persons other than police officers charged with the duty of investigating offences or charging offenders shall, so far as may be practicable, comply with these rules.

SCHEDULE 2

(Section 180)

PROVISIONS FOR PERSONS SUBJECT TO SERVICE LAW, ETC

Interpretation

1. In this Schedule—

“civilian subject to service discipline” has the meaning given in the Armed Forces Act 2006^(a);

“service policeman” has the meaning given in the Armed Forces Act 2006;

“subject to service law” must be construed in accordance with the Armed Forces Act 2006.

Power of court to draw inferences from silence of defendant

2.—(1) This paragraph applies where, in criminal proceedings for an offence brought against a defendant who is subject to service law or is a civilian subject to service discipline, evidence is given that the defendant—

- (a) on being questioned under caution by a service policeman trying to discover whether or by whom the offence was committed, failed to mention a relevant fact; or
- (b) in the case of a defendant who is subject to service law, on being informed by a service policeman that the defendant will be reported for the offence, failed to mention a relevant fact.

(2) In this paragraph, a “relevant fact” means a fact which—

- (a) is relied on by the defendant in his or her defence in the proceedings; and
- (b) in the circumstances existing at the time, the defendant could reasonably have been expected to mention when so questioned or informed.

(3) The court, in determining whether there is a case to answer or whether the defendant is guilty of the offence, may draw such inferences from the failure as appear proper.

(4) Evidence tending to establish the failure may be given before or after evidence tending to establish the relevant fact or as otherwise directed by the court.

(5) This paragraph does not—

- (a) prejudice the admissibility in evidence of the silence or other reaction of the defendant in the face of anything said in the defendant’s presence relating to the conduct in respect of which the defendant is charged, in so far as such evidence would be admissible apart from this paragraph;
- (b) preclude the drawing of an inference from any such silence or other reaction of the defendant that could properly be drawn apart from this paragraph.

Statements made under Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984

3. If a statement made to a service policeman by a person subject to service law or a civilian subject to service discipline is proved to have been made voluntarily in accordance with the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984^(b) (as applied to the armed forces by order made from time to time under section 113 of that Act), the statement is admissible in evidence in criminal proceedings against the person making the statement.
